Please enable JS and disable any ad blocker Whether you like it or not, keeping your floors clean is a day-to-day chore that must be done. If you don't clean your floors regularly, you'll likely see dire results within a week or two. A carpet sweeper can help you tackle this job. You can use it either as an alternative to or in addition to a vacuum cleaner. The problem is, you'll find many options on the market, and it's not always clear which carpet sweepers perform well and offer a good value for the money. If you need some assistance in selecting a carpet sweeper that will make your household chores a breeze, you're in the right place. Carpet sweeper benefits Perhaps you're still on the fence about purchasing a carpet sweeper. After all, you probably already own a vacuum cleaner of some type. Here are some of the benefits of owning a carpet sweeper can pick large debris off the floor that may be too big for a vacuum cleaner to handle. Manual or cordless electric carpet sweepers can tackle dirt in places where you don't have power outlets, such as a shed or screened-in porch. Carpet sweepers are perfect for quick cleans in between vacuuming days. Many models don't need to be plugged into a power outlet, so it's a fast and easy process. Manual carpet sweepers are eco-friendly; they require no electricity to run. Because carpet sweepers are significantly quieter than vacuum cleaners. they're ideal for use around nervous pets or when the baby's sleeping. Most carpet sweepers are extremely user-friendly and simple to operate. Expert TipCarpet sweepers should be used for small and quick vacuuming jobs when you don't want to pull out the big bulky vacuum cleaner. BestReviews Cleaning ExpertThere are two main types of carpet sweepers to choose from: manual carpet sweepers and electric types of each. Manual carpet sweepers don't run on electricity to run, manual carpet sweepers are an extremely eco-friendly cleaning option. You can use a manual carpet sweepers aren't quite as effective as electric carpet sweepers. You may have to put of lot of weight behind your manual carpet sweepers for less than $20. Heavy-duty commercial models may cost over $50. Electric carpet sweepers have some extra oomph to their cleaning power, making them a bit more effective than their manual counterparts. You may find that electric carpet sweepers are better at cleaning up pet hair from deep within the pile. Compared to manual models, it takes less effort to clean with an electric carpet sweepers. Cons: You're limited as to where you can use a corded electric carpet sweepers, and a cordless model could run out of battery power. Electric carpet sweepers are pricier than manual models. The lightest models because they don't have motors weighing them down. However, other factors also affect the weight of a carpet sweeper, including material, brush width, and overall size. If you have trouble lifting heavy objects or you simply want a sweeper that's easy to carry from place to place, opt for the most lightweight sweeper you can find. Brush widthSome carpet sweepers have wider brushes, or "sweeping paths," than others. The most compact options have brush widths of less than eight inches, whereas large models have brush widths exceeding 12 inches. While carpet sweeping paths are easier to maneuver and get into all those nooks and crannies, they're not as guick at sweeping large areas of floor. If you'll mostly be sweeping big, open rooms with few obstacles, a larger brush width is advisable. Blade typeCarpet sweepers clean through the use of rotating brushes, also known as blades are either traditional bristle brushes or are made from rubber. Rubber blades are better at picking up extremely fine debris, especially from tile or hardwood floors. Since both blade may sit at the front of a sweeper to clean up larger debris and hair while a rubber blade goes behind to tackle fine particles of dust and dirt. Corded or cordless model. Corded carpet sweepers, you'll need to decide whether to buy a corded or a cordless model. Corded or cordless model. the hassle of plugging it in, unplugging it in, unplugging it in, unplugging it, trailing the cord around the house, and coiling the cord up when you're free to roam wherever you please. The downside is that they have a limited run time, so you could end up losing power before you have finished sweeping. If you plan to clean larger areas, this could be especially problematic. Expert TipAlways check your brushrolls before and after each use. BestReviews Cleaning ExpertConsider the bristles are made from synthetic materials, but "natural bristles" are usually made from animal hair. Vegans, vegetarians, or anyone who avoids using certain animal products for religious reasons may want to steer clear of natural bristles. Think about the shape of your chosen carpet sweeper. Most models have rectangular sweeping heads, but some are triangular or have angled edges to more easily get into corners. Consider how durable your chosen carpet sweeper is. Commercial models are usually extra-tough and long-lasting, and there are no rules against using them at home. Look at the run time is long enough to meet your needs. Dampen the brushes on a manual carpet sweeper to increase dust pickup. However, you should never do this to an electric carpet sweeper. A. Homes that belong to dogs and cats usually require a bit of extra cleaning power, thanks to muddy paws and shedded fur. While you don't need to have a particular kind of carpet sweeper if you have pets at home, note that electric models are more powerful than their manual counterparts, and electrostatic units are effective at picking up hair. If you're looking for a manual cleaning option, using a carpet sweeper is much guicker and more effective than using a broom, "STAFFBestReviewsA.
